What happened at the Kenner oil rig?

An explosion at an oil rig Sunday night near Kenner, Louisiana, left at least seven people injured and one missing as of Monday morning. Two of the rig workers injured sustained critical burns and others sustained trauma from the blast, which happened in Lake Pontchartrain, about 20 miles north of New Orleans.

Did a rig explosion cause damage beyond the rig?

There have been no reports of damage beyond the rig, except for some pebbles hitting the side of a building. The City of Kenner stated on Facebook that the rig was undergoing cleaning when the explosion happened and that cleaning chemicals may have caused the blast. But Jefferson Parish Sheriff Joe Lopinto has not confirmed that theory.

How did a fire affect the oil & gas industry?
