

Spartan 151 jack up drilling rig

Just one large mobile drilling rig, the Spartan 151, still works offshore in Cook Inlet. This week, its five-dozen workers were hustling to finish ...

Hilcorp Alaska LLC is advancing its plan to move the Spartan 151 jack-up rig to the Tyonek platform in the North Cook Inlet unit, approximately 40 miles west-southwest of Anchorage in ...

It's been quite a few years since a jack-up drilling rig, with its characteristic pylon-like legs, was last seen operating in the shallow waters of Alaska's Cook Inlet. So, with Escopeta Oil Co. ...

U.S.-based independent energy company Hilcorp has hired one of Spartan Offshore Drilling's jack-up rigs. According to data provided by Bassoe Offshore, an offshore rig ...

Furie Operating Alaska announced Monday it has renewed its lease agreement with Hilcorp Jack-Up Rig Company, LLC, a subsidiary of ...

Furie Operating Alaska announced it wrapped up a successful offshore drilling season with the departure of the Spartan 151 jack-up rig, ...

The Spartan 151 is a 150 H class independent leg, cantilevered jack-up drill rig (jack-up rig) with a drilling depth capability of 7,620 meters (m) (25,000 feet [ft]) that can operate in maximum ...

The 2025 drilling program is expected to create up to 100 jobs during peak development phases and add five permanent positions post-completion. Furie ...

Current jack-up rig in Cook Inlet (Spartan 151) will be drilling for the foreseeable future; any new major development (Cosmopolitan, Kitchen Lights) will require the presence of a second rig.

The department issued a preliminary approval for Hilcorp's plan Oct. 5. The rig in question is a Spartan 151 jack-up rig, currently in storage in ...

Spartan 151 is an independent leg, cantilever jack-up rig, capable of drilling in up to 150 ft (45.7 m) of water depth 12 nm northeast of Nikiski Bay, Alaska. An exploratory well was ...

A jack-up oil drilling rig is now moving into position to begin exploratory drilling in Cook Inlet. Steve Sutherlin, Strategic Officer for Texas-based Escopeta Oil, says the company ...

According to Esgian, Enterprise Offshore Drilling has been awarded a contract for the Spartan 151 with

Spartan 151 jack up drilling rig

Hilcorp in Alaska. The contract is expected to get kicked off in June of ...

The platform is located in the Kitchen Lights Unit, a nearly 83,400-acre lease area between Tyonek and Nikiski. Furie has mobilized the Spartan 151 jack-up rig to the site and is ...

This report details underwater acoustic measurements in the vicinity of the Spartan 151 jack-up drilling rig in the Kitchen Lights Unit of Cook Inlet, Alaska, and the analysis of the collected data.

Hilcorp Alaska has acquired the Spartan 151 jack-up rig. The company said in a June 3 email that the sale closed May 31, and it now owns the rig through a wholly owned subsidiary.

The Spartan 151 is a 150 H class independent leg, cantilevered jack-up drill rig (jack-up rig) with a drilling depth capability of 7,620 meters (m) (25,000 feet [ft]) that can operate in maximum ...

Furie Operating Alaska said March 31 that it has renewed an agreement with Hilcorp Jack-Up Rig Co. for use of the Spartan 151 jack-up, the only jack-up in Cook Inlet, during this year's drilling ...

Drilling Vessel Designed and constructed by Baker Marine Corporation in Description 1981 (completely refurbished and upgraded in 2006), the 150" independent leg/cantilever unit was ...

Furie intends, subject to jack up rig availability, to commence a sidetrack and/or grassroots drilling during the summer/ early fall of 2024 and 2025. Furie is working with ...

As reported in the June 9 issue of Petroleum News, Hilcorp Alaska has acquired the Spartan 151 jack-up rig from Enterprise Offshore Drilling. Hilcorp said in a June 3 email that the sale closed ...

According to Esgian, Enterprise Offshore Drilling has been awarded a contract for the Spartan 151 with Hilcorp in Alaska. The contract is ...

Foss Maritime Co. tugs Justine Foss and Jeffrey Foss have completed a successful tow of a jackup drilling rig to its winter harbor in Port Graham, Alaska. The Spartan 151 jackup ...

The Spartan 151 jack-up rig is the first rig to operate in the Cook inlet in more than 20 years. The Kitchen Lights Unit (KLU), covering an area of ...

The Alaska Department of Environmental Conservation (ADEC) has made a preliminary decision to approve Furie Operating Alaska's application for Air Quality Control Minor Permit ...

On March 17, 2011, Escopeta loaded the Spartan 151 jack-up rig on the M/V KANG SHENG KOU, a Chinese bulker, which is currently in transit around South America to ...

Spartan 151 jack up drilling rig

Drilling is expected to begin as early as mid-April in the Kitchen Lights Unit, located in Cook Inlet directly north of Nikiski. A jack-up rig is a mobile platform ...

Tugs pull the Spartan 151 jack-up drilling platform up Cook Inlet in August 2011. The rig will be operated by Furie Operating Alaska, formerly ...

Escopeta Oil Co. is facing a federal fine of $15 million stemming from the company violating the Jones Act as they transported a jack-up oil rig to Alaska's Cook Inlet from Texas, ...

Web: <https://www.kwa-andries.co.za>